PEOPLE'S FORUM

PRACTICAL ENCOURAGEMENT

Three Forks, Mont., September 13, 1919.

Mr. B. R. Greer: Congratulations to you for the splendid appearance of the Ashland Daily Tidings. A daily has been the hope of the people of Ashland for many years and you are certainly entitled to the support of the people in making it possible to maintain the high standard you have set.

Kindly let me know the amount of cash necessary for me to send you in order to receive your publication daily. The Tidings has only reached me intermittently so kindly see that hereafter no issue is permitted to pass me by.

Yours very sincerely,
H. O. FROHBACH.

The funeral of Wayne N. Grubb, who died at his home Tuesday evening after a long illness, was held today from the late residence at the corner of the Boulevard and Morison street at 10 a. m., and was conducted by Rev. C. F. Koehler of the Presbyterian church. Interment was made in the family plot in Ashland cemetery. Mr. Grubb was a native of Pennsylvania. He had lived for the past nineteen years near Ashland on what is considered the finest alfalfa farm in this section of the valley. Failing health forced him to retire from active work, so he sold his farm and moved to a residence he owned in Ashland where he lived for the past year. He was one of the most highly respected men of this neighborhood and leaves a large number of friends to mourn his demise. Surviving Mr. Grubb are his wife and three children, Mrs. G. A. Morse of Sacramento, Calif., Mrs. H. B. Carter of Ashland and Charles Trubb of Turlock, Calif.

George Williams, son of Mrs. J. D. Williams of Soda Springs, is at the sanitarium suffering from a fractured jawbone and skull as the result of an accident on the Green Springs mountain Thursday. Mr. Williams was sawing wood there, when a large log became dislodged and struck him on the head. He was brought into Ashland for treatment and is in a serious condition.

ASIATIC CHOLERA IN RUSSIA

NOVORISSK, Russia.—(By courier to Constantinople.)—An epidemic of Asiatic cholera is raging in this city.

During the past week the death rate from the disease has averaged 120 per day. Sixty-five percent of these cases prove fatal. Shore leave from ships in harbor has been discontinued.

Instructions against the use of un-boiled water and uncooked food have been issued, but careless living habits of the people render them averse to precautionary measures.

Physicians of the American Red Cross are treating the crews of foreign ships with anti-cholera serum and have furnished serum for use by the health authorities of the city.

Oregon city to have 3-story hotel, 33 by 100 feet.

Carver to have state bank with $25,000 capital.

Bend Methodists promoting $30,000 church.

MOVING TIME FOR PULLETS

September is moving time for the hens and pullets which must be transferred from the range to their winter quarters as early as possible so as to be acclimated to their cold-weather environments before they begin to lay. Year after year poultry keepers neglect to shift their stock from the summer resorts to winter lodgings early enough, as this is one of the basic principles of best management, according to specialists of the United States department of agriculture.

R. H. Stanley of A street has been making a search for the grave of his son, Sergeant F. Stanley, 3rd Bn. Coldstream Guards, who lost his life in the world war. Mr. Stanley had written to the Earl of Derby of Berks, England, for information, and received a reply that his letter had been turned over to the commanding officers of his son's regiment and the matter would be looked into.

Later Mr. Stanley received a letter from Colonel J. Steele, commanding the Coldstream Guards, stating that Sergeant Stanley was killed in action near Boesinghe on August 2, 1917. He was buried at a point just south of Poecappelle, East of Langemark, northeast of Ypres. The grave has been registered and is marked by a durable wooden cross with an inscription bearing his name, rank, regiment and date of death.

Rev. C. A. Edwards has returned from Klamath county where he had been over Sunday conducting quarterly conference. During his absence Mr. Edwards attended a tribal council at the Klamath Agency and at that time secured a fine timber claim belonging to the Methodist church. He held services in the agency Sunday and claims that it is hard to get down to preaching to ordinary white people after conducting services among the Red brothers at the agency.

Complying with the invitation sent out by the state to the National Guard to send men from the various companies in the state to assist at the State Fair in Salem next week, ten men were appointed from Company B. These are Sergeant Sam B. McNair, Corporal Eric H. Weren; Privates Wm. E. More, Arthur Peters, Ross Small, Harry Silver, Irving Porter, Theo Smith, Wm. R. Clary and Lloyd Crowson. The Tidings is in receipt of the following from Mrs. G. E. Millner, who is in Long Beach, Calif., where she will spend the winter:

"Long Beach, Calif.
"51 Atlantic Ave.

"Kindly send the Tidings to the above address. Have gained six pounds since arriving. Kenneth has started to school, but we miss our Ashland friends very much. Schools here are overflowing, have half day sessions. Children and Japs very prolific. Kind regards to all friends.

"MRS. G. E. MILLNER."

Mrs. Millner had been seriously ill for some time previous to her going to Long Beach, and her many friends will be glad to hear that she is recovering.

"Seeing the president pass through here reminded me of the first president I ever saw in Ashland," remarked a citizen yesterday. "This was Rutherford B. Hayes, who was touring the coast states. He had to stage it from Redding, Calif., to Roseburg, and while passing through Ashland stopped and made an address to the people in this section of Oregon. A big demonstration was held here at that time, with a stage rigged up in the middle of the street from where President Hayes addressed the assemblage and shook hands with the populace of Southern Oregon who had come here to greet him."

The train deluxe on which President Wilson is touring the coast is a far cry to the carriage drawn by horses on which President Hayes reached various sections of the coast states, and that was not so very long ago, either.

The large gasoline 120-horse power Holt caterpillar engine that was unloaded at the S. P. station the first of the week has been put together and was taken up to the Green Springs mountain road today. A new magnet to replace the one stolen night before last arrived this morning, and completed the machine. The engine was designed for overseas service, but had got no further than Virginia when hostilities ceased, and will now be put to the peaceful duties of grading for the county on the mountain highway.
